They Had Lots of Fun.

The other night Adam Uhl left the carcass of a large bullock hanging in front of the Eagle market. About 1 o'clock in the morning, along came a State official, a musician, a drygoods merchant and a bar-keeper.

The official proposed to make a "horizontal raise" on the dead bovine and take it around some corner, just for fun; it would be a good joke on Uhl.

The drygoods merchant said when it came to fun he was "all silk and warranted fast colors," and was willing to assist, so he went up to Bell's store and got a truck.

The drink mixer said he didn't want anyone to "bar" him out, and would lend a hand, while the musician said he would "finger" the truck provided the others unhooked the beast.

So, while the State official bossed the job the others managed to get the dead animal onto the truck. So far, so good.

Just about that time Officer Patterson came along and wanted to know what was going on.

The State official told the policeman that he was on his way home and had just happened along in time to upset a coolly laid plot to rob the market.

The drygoods man explained that he had wagered that he could wheel the carcass half a block and back, and was about to demonstrate his ability to do so.

The other two said they were merely assisting him to get it on the truck so he wouldn't strain himself, etc., etc.

Patterson said their work was too coarse, and if they didn't hang it up again he would run them all in.

"Why, certainly, Mr. Patterson; we intended to do so all the time," said the four in chorus.

It weighed 600, and the quartette had any amount of fun.

There are still a few choice cuts left.

Now and Then.

Does Bartine charge Stewart with knowingly having participated in Sherman's crime of '73?

If so let him explain his (Bartine's) language in Congress on June 7, 1890, as follows:

"What 'consensus of opinion,' what popular demand, led to the passage of our own demonetizing act of 1873? Why, sir, not one person in a thousand even knew that it had been done until a year or two afterwards; and if the 'consensus of opinion' could have been fairly voiced by the American Congress that law would not have remained upon the statute books one year after the discovery was made."

ECHOES OF '91.

Senator Ingalls in a Burst of Fury Tells the Truth.

The following are extracts from the speech of Senator Ingalls, delivered in the United States Senate January 14th, 1891. He said:

"The moral sentiment of mankind has been aroused at the unequal distribution of wealth and the unequal diffusion of burdens."

"During the period of the past 20 years the wealth of the country increased at the rate of $250,000 for every hour. Every time that the clock ticked above the portals of this chamber the aggregate permanent wealth of this country increased more than $70. Notwithstanding this stupendous aggregation there are a million American citizens, able bodied and willing to work, who tramp the streets of our cities and the country highways and byways in search of labor with which to buy their daily bread, in vain."

"Mr. Sherman, the senator from Ohio, devoted a considerable part of his remarks yesterday to the defense of millionaires, that he declared to be the froth of the beer of our political system."

"The millionaires are not the producers and laborers; they are arrayed like Solomon in all his glory, but 'they toil not, neither do they spin.' These gigantic accumulations have not been the result of industry and economy."

"The people are beginning to inquire whether under a government of the people, for the people and by the people, under a system in which the bounty of nature is supplemented by the labor of all, any citizen can show a moral yes, or a legal title to $200,000,000."

"If I were put upon my voir dire I should hesitate before admitting that in the sense of giving just compensation and equivalent, any man in this country or any other country ever absolutely earned a million dollars. I do not believe he ever did."

"I repeat that the people are not snarlistic; they are not socialists; they are not communists; but they have suddenly waked to the conception of the fact that the bulk of the property of this country is passing into the hands of what the senator from Ohio, with euphemism, calls the 'speculators of the world.'"

"It appears that in the United States there are 2,000 persons who have more than $20,000,000 each, and there is one man who has acquired, within less than a life time of a single individual, out of the aggregate that exceeds the assessed value of four of the states in this Union, and much more, many times more, than the entire wealth of the country when it was established."

"Four hundred persons possess $10,000,000 each; one thousand persons possess $5,000,000 each; two thousand persons possess $2,000,000; six thousand persons possess $1,000,000 each, and a total of twenty-one thousand persons, who possess $36,250,000,000."

"Mr. President, it is the most appalling statement that ever fell upon mortal ears. * * * It is the most terrible commentary that was ever recorded in the books of time—and Nero fiddles while Rome burns. It is thrown off with a sneer."

"A social system which offers to tender, virtuous and independent women, the alternative between prostitution and suicide as an escape from beggary, is organized crime."

"The Stowaway."

Of the many plays given to the public few are able to continue more than one or two seasons, even among the list of those that are classed as dramatic successes, and it is strong evidence of public commendation when a play like "The Stowaway" is able to draw the public for six consecutive seasons. There is something about "The Stowaway" with its realistic yacht, its real burglars and wife, and its story which has an intensity of interest rarely excelled by any stage creation. But be the attraction what it may, the fact cannot be controverted, that no play of recent years has achieved the public favor or netted for its projectors as great an amount of money as has "The Stowaway," which will appear at the Opera House, Saturday, October 28th.

Father Sheridan Dead.

At 10:15 last night Father Sheridan died at his residence in this city after a short illness, of typhoid fever. He was the Pastor of St. Theresa's Church, and was 28 years of age. He leaves a sister in California.

ALL SORTS.

Wm. Sharon passed through to Virginia yesterday.

Hon. Thos. Wren arrived on yesterday's delayed train.

Lloyd, the son of Wm. Wooley of the V. & T. Laundry is very ill.

Fresh canned oysters every day at Tennant's, fresh fish Thursday and Friday.

Jim Rayercraft whose leg was severely injured by a kick from a horse several days ago, is better.

Rev. Father Taberna came down from Virginia yesterday by private conveyance, summoned by the illness of Father Sheridan.

The Journal says Red Phillips of Idaho and William Williams of Carson are billed to fight in Reno soon. Who is the latter named gentleman.

"What does any honest Republican gain by voting for Bartine?" Tribune, Nov. 4, 1892.

We give it up. Ask Meyers, Gordon and King.

Mrs. Mary Lease and Ignatius Donnelly are now speaking with General Weaver in South Dakota. Still the gold bugs say Mrs. Lease is for Harrison.

Senator Stewart addressed a big audience at Wellington last night. Everybody was enthusiastic, and his speech was continually interrupted by applause.

A South Dakota girl lost a lot of 1,000 kisses on Blaine's failure to get the nomination and conscientiously paid the same. A recount was demanded, and rather than be mixed up in a contest she consented.

Wait and See.

The News asks: "Will the Appeal please tell us where that revised list of Weaver States is?"

The list is growing so rapidly that our most optimistic estimate will fall below the true figures to be proven by the vote next month.

A few of the Silver and Peoples' Party States that will cast their votes for James B. Weaver, are: Colorado, Idaho, Wyoming, South Dakota and Nebraska.

The News will note the absence from this partial list of such positive Weaver States as Kansas and Nevada.

We respect its intelligence sufficiently to deem it aware of the foregoing conclusion that certain States omitted in this list will vote for the Omaha nominees.

Wait till the People complete the list—along about the eighth of November.

Good Word for Nevada.

Brave, gallant little Nevada! How nobly and faithfully her silver miners, business and live stock men moved forward under the free silver banner. Her sister, Colorado, keeps up the battle on the east side of the Rockies, flanked by Kansas, Wyoming and Nebraska, all determined and confident in the good cause. The people are bound to win.—Denver News.

In '82 the Tribune Asked:

"Will you sell your birthright for a mess of pottage to such traitorous renegades as Hill and Bartine?"

No indeed Eddie. Mr. Hill's remains are in the coffin; let the grave shelter them. Bartine's remains though confined, will not be buried till the eighth of next month.

Meanwhile the pottage peddlers can eat the mess of crow provided by Messrs Cleveland, Bliss and Farrell.

Right Eye Removed.

Four years ago, Stephen Morris of Dayton, was hit in the right eye with a stick of wood, causing the loss of the sight of that eye. This began to effect the other eye, until finally it was decided to remove the right optic to prevent absolute blindness. The operation was successfully performed Sunday last by Drs. Robinson and Guinan.

A. Livingston now practically controls the wholesale liquor trade of the city. He is continually adding to his stock and sells only standard brands.
